The Days Before Christmas

A most wonderful opportunity to honor the Lord Christ lies just before us — The Precious Days Before Christmas. Let us join others in paying homage to Him as the week unfolds.

Because Christ Lives

Friday night at 7:30 in the Church of the Holy Quest we honor the Christ with music, drama, movement choir, candle lighting and Christmas caroling.

The Christmas Eve Procession

As a young child, Questhaven's co-founder, the Reverend Flower A. Newhouse, saw a glorious procession each Christmas Eve and came to look upon it as the advent of Christmas. As she grew older and began to study the rodents and create a safe nest for the owls ($49 each)

Bell Choir Microphone:

To record our amazing musical performances ($180)

Gift of Pure Love: To sustain the Ministry and grounds in the name of Christ (Priceless!)

figures in the procession and to understand the importance of their placement, she realized that the procession is a great benefit to the entire planet. A tremendous solar empowerment is received on earth by very high Angelic Beings called Tuma, of the rank of Angel Kings, Who receive, disperse and then relay it to the lofty lophel, of the rank of Angel Princes. The lophel gentle the currents, preparing them as an engineer would, stepping them down so that they can be dispersed through the atmosphere. They are relayed through other orders of Angels, one after the other, until this Great Outshining surrounds the Lord Christ. These exalted energies, surcharged through Him, are relayed to humanity in a tremendous solar baptism with the Christ Blessing upon it.

Beginning at midnight of Christmas Eve in the sacred city above Jerusalem, our Lord conducts this event for one purpose – so that humankind may take in the new keynote He sounds, and live it throughout the coming year. Although it appears to those with sight as if the procession is advancing toward us, participants of this pageant are actually stationary and the earth rotates to meet them. The event takes place on the causal, mental, astral and etheric planes and touches the uppermost frequencies of the physical plane.

Flower's voice intoned, Purify us, O Lord Christ, that we may worthily receive Thee as others joined her in the church each year just before midnight on Christmas Eve. She noted the brightening of the atmosphere, great rejoicing and jubilation, flashing of lights, glorious colors not in our color spectrum, swirling energies and tier upon tier of magnificently beautiful Beings from the Kingdom of the Angels. Flower described the heavenly music, the intoning of

Appreciating Advent
by Andrea Chinn-Parillo

I was so touched by everyone who shared their stories during our Advent series. These talks created a sacred space where we were united ever deeper as a spiritual family. I appreciate all who shared and all who held the space for those who allowed themselves to be seen in such an authentic way. I recently heard a talk on vulnerability by Brené Brown where she said the original definition of courage came from the Latin word cor, which means “heart.” She said courage originally meant to tell the story of who you are with your whole heart. In showing this sort of courage, these sounds by the Angels, the calls for action and transformation with waves of power coming to awaken souls. She saw tiny nature beings coming into the narthex of the church, smiling and filled with Light. In the procession she observed mysterious Beings we only know by name, including The Sanat Kumara and The Ancient of Days. The Lord Buddha and other Lords all come to pay homage to the Christ on the day of His birthday celebration. Row upon row of Masters, Initiates, and all in humanity who sincerely love the Lord may join in the procession from their higher bodies after they retire to sleep. We are invited to give our gift to the Christ as He approaches—a gift that dwells in our aura all year long.

May the holiest of Christmases be yours!

speakers gave us a rare gift of connection. We saw that what makes us vulnerable also makes us beautiful and lovable. Through their stories we felt our own struggles and fear as well as beautiful moments of joy and love. Thank you to all who helped create such a powerful Advent series. As we prepare our gifts to Christ this year, our hearts overflow with gratitude for the blessings we continue to receive from Him. I look forward to sharing the joy and blessings of Christmas with each of you. Merry Christmas.
